In the cool freshues of the morning honr,
When seemed hreeges come from leaf and thower,
The robbin's wild note, how it doth infuse t'omitod and loy to the weary, sad heart!
When Natuse doth wake with a mother's care
Her befabreyed darlings to breath the freeb air,
Then they open their eyes o'er meadow and lea.
And life seems joyful unto me.

When the dove's los coo from the far off grove and we aigh as we think how long is their stay Heart ties all scattered non seem to be,

And life reems sale um unto me
